

RAILROAD BILL IS IN CONFERENCE

Mr. Mann, in Charge of Measure, Declared Senate Bill Was Full of Errors.

ALL NOT SMOOTH SAILING YET

Minority Leader Clark Thought It
Better Bill Than If It Went To Conference.

Washington, June 7.—The flurry over the railroad situation became a thing of the past today. The railroad presidents went home; President Taft went horseback riding, and the railroad bill went to conference.

Representatives of the eastern and central railroads, at a conference with the president this afternoon, agreed to withhold all freight increases until the new railroad law becomes effective, and after that to submit the reasonableness of the increases to the interstate commerce commission. The railroads interested in the southern territory declared they had not as yet filed notices of increase, but that they did they would be ready to abide by the decision of the commission.

NOT PLEASANT AT CAPITOL.
At the Capitol things were not so pleasant. President Taft sent a special message to Congress telling of the settlement he had reached with the railroads and urging that the provision of the railroad bill that gives the interstate commerce commission power to investigate and suspend new rates, be made effective immediately upon the signing of the act, rather than have it go into effect only after the other clauses, which have a 60-day limit. The president did this as a part of the agreement with the railroads, by which he promised them a square deal, and a speedy determination as to the justice of their new rates. He also did it to prevent the filing of any new rates during the 60 days between the signing of the act and its becoming effective. There was a bitter fight in the house as to whether the senate amendments should be accepted as a whole or the measure should go to conference. The insurgents and Democrats who were opposed to a conference declared that the president's wishes could not be met by an agreement on the part of the house. The regulars, who desired to have the bill sent to conference for a "smoothing out" process, declared that the only way to effect the president's wishes was to send the bill to conference. They finally won the six votes, which they had indicated in his message and left it to Congress to determine the best means of meeting that wish. The president's conference today was with President McKim of the Pennsylvania, President Brown of the New York Central and President Finley of the Southern railroad. These men represented all the trunk lines from Chicago eastward. It was taken for granted before the conference began that there would be amicable settlement and there was little surprise when, after an hour and a half, the statement was issued that there had been a complete agreement. In none of his negotiations with the railroad presidents has President Taft suggested that there was any purpose on the part of the administration to apply for a dissolution of the various trunk line associations.

At the same time there have not been intimations that any of the railroads could be granted immunity from the operations of the Sherman anti-trust law. The administration used the anti-trust law in bringing the injunction suit against the increased rates simply because there was no other avenue open to it.

During the conference the question of the ability of the interstate commerce commission to dispose of all the new rates within the next 11 months was freely discussed. President Taft expressed the belief that the present rates gave a basis for comparison that would not require a great amount of time. President McKim offered the suggestion that as certain basic rates form the foundation for all the other thousands of rates, the disposition of the basic rates might not require such a great length of time. Once the basic rates are fixed the others apply almost automatically.

When the rate bill was brought up in the house, that body almost accepted it, missing the consumption by a slim margin of six votes. The second session of the bill, requiring increases in railroad rates to be submitted to the commission in advance.

ORDERED TO CONFERENCE.
The bill finally was ordered to conference and conferees on the part of the house were named. These were Representative Mann of Wisconsin, and Representative McCreary of Pennsylvania (Republicans), and Adamson of Georgia (Democrat). The senate conferees are Elkins of West Virginia, Aldrich of Rhode Island (Republicans), and Foster of Louisiana (Democrat). Not a little surprise was occasioned by the loss of six Democratic votes and much speculation as to the cause resulted. It was pointed out that four of the Democrats were so-called Tammany representatives from New York—Representatives Fitzgerald, Harrison, Goulden and Craig of Alabama.

The list of "insurgents" who voted with the "regulars" against the senate bill was also subjected to scrutiny and their attitude was the cause of much comment. President Taft recommended the changes in the senate bill proposed by Mr. Leonard in a message to Congress in which he said that two more will be dispatched just as soon as the whales are caught.

The first consignment consists of skeletons of a "sulphur bottomed" whale 78 feet in length, another variety 46 feet long, and a pair of small "killer" whales from 25 to 27 feet in length. The museum expects to obtain also a sperm whale and a "hunch-back," of which varieties it at present has no specimens.

GOVERNMENT LAND POLICY.
Senator Heyburn Says It Has Driven American Homeseekers to Canada.
Washington, June 7.—Senator Heyburn of Idaho, today declared that the government's land policy has driven 30,000 American homeseekers to Canada because they could not get homes here.

His statement was made during a discussion of the subject before the legislative committee on land and irrigation. The president to withdraw lands authorized by the government. Mr. Heyburn said there is much public land in Idaho that could be settled under the homestead law, but that it has been withdrawn from entry. Senators Borah and Carter attributed the withdrawal of the land to the liberality of the Dominion land laws. Mr. Carter declared the homestead law was more completely discredited in the United States than in any other country within his knowledge. He declared that the settler had proved his case, a special agent "who had been sitting around like a buzzard on a perch" and investigating and if possible impugning the man's testimony.

He said that he would not vote for any bill that would make it more difficult for people to obtain homes in the west.

GOLDWIN SMITH DEAD.
Distinguished English Historian Who Made Canada His Home.
Toronto, Ont., June 7.—Prof. Goldwin Smith died this afternoon after a long illness.

Goldwin Smith, destined to become famous as an historian and economist of brilliant accuracy and vision, was born at Reading, England, Aug. 22, 1823, and was the son of a physician. He was educated at Eton and Oxford, and took his M. A. in 1847. He was a fellow of the Royal Society and the same year was called to the English bar. As a regular professor of modern history at his alma mater from 1856 to 1866, he was an active and important champion of the north during the civil war. In 1868 he came to America, and in 1868 was made honorary professor of English in Toronto, Canada, and lived there until his death. His books and lectures include many aspects of modern history, and a remarkable scope of miscellaneous subjects, including the Bible, Greek tragedy, Latin poets, the Irish question, and labor and capital.

For misquoting rates, asserting that it would permit a granting of a rate. Announcing that he did not favor the senate bill in its entirety. Minority Leader Clark said he thought it was a better bill than would be given the country if the measure went to conference, and, therefore, he favored accepting the senate amendments.

ESTHER MEARSON'S
STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE
New York, June 7.—A squad of New York detectives in searching the dark corners of the city, have this morning located the whereabouts of Esther Mearson, a 16-year old stenographer, whose strange disappearance while in search of employment, has led her parents to believe that she is either being detained somewhere against her will or has been murdered.

According to the police the case resembles in many of its features that of Ruth Wheeler, who was murdered in the rooms of Albert Wolter, a few weeks ago, while seeking employment as a stenographer. The Mearson girl disappeared on Monday and the search for her has been fruitless. The family turned over to the detective bureau several newspaper lists of help wanted advertisements, which she had consulted. With these lists as a basis for their investigation the detectives have begun a canvass in the office districts to see if they can get some trace of places where the girl called looking for work.
